OBSERVATION

This is an observation which may be all wrong, such as noticing the corner of the patient's pillow has been chewed, but not being sure the damage wasn't done by the laundry.

When congress ended what news writers called a three weeks' deadlock Friday by agreeing on a housing bill the breakup of the legislative log jam made about as much noise as a pebble tossed into Niagara Falls.

In other words, no one was excited in the least, despite the fact the housing bill is supposed to save the country. More to the point, no one has been excited about any new deal legislation since the defeat of the supreme court proposal last summer, and that was negative.

Americans in this part of the country aren't even perturbed about the anti-lynching bill filibuster, which has produced some of the spiciest oratory heard in Washington since Huey Long was killed—and which, incidentally, is supposed to be blocking progress.

What this may mean is anyone's guess. What it seems to indicate, and plainly, too, is that out where the people live no one believes any more that the President or congress is going to "far back" like De Lawd in "Green Pastures" and pass a miracle.

Within limits, this is a good sign, unless popular skepticism goes too far. That bridge can be crossed when it's reached. In the meantime, it's highly probable that the people are saying in effect to their executives and legislators steaming and stewing in Washington, "You boys have worked hard and we appreciate what you've tried to do. We've taken your medicine and we've even had faith in some of it. But right now what we need most is to have our hand held and our forehead soothed."

HASTE STILL MAKES WASTE

Sen. Byrnes, chairman of the senate unemployment and relief committee, has added his voice to that of Gov. Davey and President Roosevelt in favor of speeding up unemployment insurance benefits by reducing the reserve buildup period to one year, instead of two.

With all respect for these three gentlemen, it is submitted that none of them qualifies as an expert on social security. It is further submitted that all three are professional politicians, which provides them with a motive for doing certain things that are popular, but not necessarily wise.

For an expert slant on speeding up unemployment insurance, a person hunting an unbiased opinion would be likely to turn to "Social Security," monthly publication of the American Association for Social Security Inc. In the January issue Abraham Epstein, editor, writes:

"Emergency arrangements cannot but lead to grave errors and abuses, thus discrediting unemployment insurance before it has an opportunity to get started."

As for effect on unemployment and relief, this is "Social Security's" opinion:

"There is little economic advantage in starting benefits without adequate preparation. The effect the payments would have on the general unemployment problem will be infinitesimal. . . . The inauguration of benefit payments under the present adverse conditions without sufficient funds and adequate administrative procedure will thus not only prove wasteful but will have little bearing on the relief problem in these states."

THEY OVERDID IT

Ohio's Gov. Davey and National Committeeman Sawyer could go places as models for toothpaste advertising on the strength of the brotherly love picture they posed for in Cincinnati. With arms on each other's shoulders and fingers interlocked, they looked like the lifelong chums they were supposed to have been before the open letters they exchanged recently.

But those letters were convincing, too. "You creep up from behind and stab in the back with a poisoned dagger," wrote Gov. Davey. "The time has come for you to produce tangible proof or stand convicted of malicious slander of the innocent."

"You have undertaken a most bitter and uncalled-for diatribe against me," Mr. Sawyer replied. "As you are gasping on the ropes you yell that I hit you below the belt. You also claim that I crept up from behind. Just where did I hit you, Martin?"

Either Gov. Davey and Mr. Sawyer love each other or they hate each other; they can't be doing both at the same time. The only thing left for Ohioans to believe is that in view of the fact they overdid both demonstrations, the whole affair's a hoax. The upshot of it is that now the state wonders what to believe about them.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, January 25

According to the lunar transits, this is an excellent day for launching new enterprises following a period of stagnation. Old investments may also take a spurt, and real estate, industry, labor and commodities are under high stimuli for increased valuation. Elders may benefit, possibly through wills, trusts or insurance. It is a fortunate time for pushing all affairs with vigor.

Those whose birthday it is should be prepared for a lively year, with old as well as new matters under high stimulus. There may be definite rewards for application, industry and fidelity. This may be in the nature of trust, land insurance or another gift of sound value. It is a time for aggressive action.

A child born on this day may be energetic, vigorous, practical, responsible and steady. It may be sociable, artistic and popular.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—Diary: Came an original poster in colors from a favorite limner, Peter Arno. And Dean Cornwell sent a print of my shield that he painted along with many others for the Warwick's cocktail room. Also a cabby Bible reading from Meredith Nicholson in Venezuela prophetic of the times.

News that Louise Simpson had hawked her first fiction tangle and that Ward Morehouse was a visitor in Gallipoli. So to East End avenue to the Lawrence Tibbets' tea and home to find as nice and kindly a note as I have ever received from Bernard Baruch, the great capitalist.

Dinner with my wife and Nelle Shaw on a chine of elk meat Major Bowes sent from the Jackson Hole country. And far uptown to see Mary Devine, the tiny Tivvies I used to ride piggy-back on walks along upper Riverside Drive and found her almost a grown up lady.

The newest of the avenue restaurants is Stouffer's, which has establishments in several other key cities. It accentuates the inroad of a more democratic type of eating rendezvous along the big boulevard, a trail blazed by Schrafft's with their home cooking fare. And in contrast to the pontifical plushiness and glitteringly chandelied Delmonico's and old Sherry's. Incidentally Stouffer's brings that treasured mid-west dessert to its menu—Brown Betty. Also lye hominy.

The maddest of the night club zanies continues to be Jack White. He is a graduate of the baseball park where 20 years ago he began to razz visiting players at the Polo Grounds, and employs practically the same technique in shouting down customers who float—float is the word, for they are usually in a haze—into his tiny tepee on West 52d street in the early morning. Few so neatly scotch the heckling stew and he does it without gloves. No one has as yet swung at him—at least not up to press time.

Bars report a sudden uptake in brandy swigging. No one seems to know exactly why. Before prohibition brandy was confined largely to an after-dinner bouquet at formal parties or to old duffers chucking a night cap in their club lounge. But today the youngsters, male and female, go for it not only before meals but after and long into the night. Cognac, too, has become the base of a number of drinks packed with giddypap. So great is the demand that one place in the East 60's makes a bow as The Brandy Bar.

The most accomplished brandy drinker was a star of the silent films. Long use of the powerful drink had given him the chronic shakes unless he was under influence. Alan Dwan used to direct him in handsome devil parts and it was necessary for him to down a half pint or so before facing the camera so he could be filmed, so great were his tremors. Oddly, he is still around, and when I saw him a year or so ago was imbibing deeply of his favorite beverage. I was telling a young interne in a psychopathic ward about this particular case one day. And he remarked graphically: "I know about them. But one day they go out with the horrors!" Yet there are cognac drinkers who have appetites under control. Clement's only tittle was a spoonful of brandy in a little warm milk nightly, before going to bed, a rite he indulged in for 60 years.

Bagatelles: Cholly Knickerbocker, the sylph, has shucked off 28 pounds. . . . Alfred Vanderbilt, America's No. 1 turfman, never makes a bet on a horse race. . . . Rupert Hughes usually begins writing around midnight, puffing black cigars and bucking himself up with strong black coffee. . . . Martha Deane likes to dine alone in the quiet tea-rooms. . . . Uncle Don, after 10 years on the radio, is said to be the best fixed financially of all those who began at the same time. . . . Lee Owell started his career as a magazine illustrator.

Top laugh of winter: That mighty bugler caparisoned in gold braid and wearing a tall fur hat, on a beautiful charger, who lifted his bugle to open the fashionable horse show—and bugled only a thin canary-like cheep!

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

TUBERCULOSIS

IT IS well known that there has been a marked decline in the general death rate from tuberculosis.

This dreaded disease, known as "white plague" or "consumption", was all too common only a quarter of a century ago. As a result of our improved methods of diagnosis and treatment, there has been a definite decrease in the number of sufferers from this condition.

But in spite of this fine improvement, the tuberculosis death rate remains too high in infants under one year of age. In fact, children of this age appear more susceptible to the disease than in any other period of life.

For this reason, it is advised by all the experts in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis that more rigid provisions be made to guard the baby from tuberculosis. What is useful to this end, improves the general health as well.

An infant may contract tuberculosis in one of two ways. It may inhale the germs from some infected person, usually a parent, the nurse, or a relative. The second source of infection is by the mouth and I am glad to say that danger has almost disappeared by reason of the pasteurization or boiling of milk.

Prevent Contact

It will be seen that the prevention of tuberculosis in early infancy can be controlled by preventing contact of the baby with those who suffer from the disease. But, unfortunately, the disease often exists in adults without their being aware of it.

It is well to suspect tuberculosis when there is a history of "hemoptysis", coughing up of blood, or repeated attacks of colds, pleurisy and various disturbances of the lung. When such a history is found in one of the household, it is best that the infant be kept away from him until a sure diagnosis is made.

Let me warn you of a very common source of infection which is often overlooked. Too often a fond grandparent is permitted intimate care of an infant. The grandparent frequently has a chronic cough and is believed to be suffering from "chronic bronchitis" or "asthma", when in reality it may be some form of tuberculosis.

Whenever a member of the family is suspected of having any disorder of the lungs, a complete medical examination should be obtained. The sputum should be examined and in all instances X-ray examinations made of the lungs.

Answers to Health Queries 6

D. B. Q.—I am a girl of 18 and have what is called acne. What can be done to overcome this condition?

A—Watch the diet and keep the intestinal tract clear. For full particulars, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland, New York City.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—just two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Fresh Food, Well Prepared, Is Basis Of Success Of Hainan's Restaurant

NO SIDE ISSUES ARE ATTEMPTED

Hainan's Concentrate On Business of Serving Food

Several factors enter into the successful operation of a restaurant or other type of eating establishment.

First of all, Hainan's, on E. State st., in the heart of the downtown district, specializes on being a restaurant, nothing more, nothing less. It does not attempt to combine a variety of other businesses with its attempt to serve the people with food. It concentrates on just that job and its success is apparent in its steadily growing clientele.

There is the question, too, of the food itself. At Hainan's only the best and the freshest of meats, produce and other perishable goods are used. Considerable care is exercised in the buying of this type of food and, once bought, is handled just as carefully, with cleanliness stressed at all times.

It is home cooked and served efficiently. Promptness has always been an outstanding characteristic of Hainan's and the customer is assured so that his desires, above all others, are satisfied.

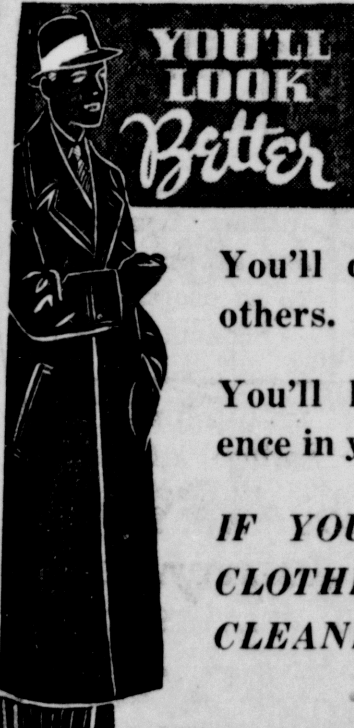

In the dining room there is an environment of cleanliness that accentuates the diner's comfort and pleasure. Clean linen is used at all times and utensils are kept spotless and shining.

There are many more qualifications that go to make a successful restaurant but these are among the more important and they explain, in a few words, why Hainan's is one of the city's choicest eating places.

We Give Our Entire Time and Attention to RESTAURANT BUSINESS . . .

That's why our Foods are Better and Our Service Never Interrupted.

HERE'S HANDY DOOR CHECK

ONE of the refinements on Ford V-8 cars for 1938 which is the result of careful attention to detail is a device to prevent open doors from closing when the car is standing on a grade, at a slight angle or in a breeze. The catch releases when a little pressure is exerted to close the door. The check previously used merely limited the outward movement of doors to keep them from swinging too far back. The improved concealed check supplies an additional convenient feature because it often is desirable to have car doors stand open to permit passengers to enter or to enable the driver to stow packages or luggage. The device is a bar extending from the inside of the body door pillar into the door frame. When Ford car doors are opened to the limit permitted by the check, a catch offers enough resistance to hold them in that position. Rubber washers are used to cushion the action.

Poultry and Hatching Industry Is Grateful For Warner Brooder

"Thanks a Million!" The poultry and hatching industry owes thanks not only to Boyd Warner but also the poultry departments at several universities and leading northern Indiana power companies for their research projects in the perfecting of the new Warner Premier electric brooder.

Amazing success follows the use of the Warner brooder. The experimenting has all been done and hundreds of testimonials from many large breeding poultry farms are the proof of three outstanding results built into the Warner brooder, sold by the Salona Supply company.

Better feathering, contentment among growing birds, and cold brooding produce a bird that will stand up better under a long period of confinement.

Cold brooding simply allows the chicks a wide range of temperature, from the highest point required for the complete comfort of young chicks to a temperature as low as below zero outside.

The mass and danger of oil and coal brooders is antiquated. You will find the Warner brooder much cheaper to operate and chicks will thrive because of its constant and steady heat. As little as six cents a day will operate a 500 size.

The Salona Supply company has them in stock and is in a position to demonstrate the Warner to anyone interested.

VICTOR SCORES NEW TRIUMPHS

Electric Tuning, Straight-Line Dial, Magic Eye Are Features Of This New Model

The greatest value in R. C. A. Victor Radio history has just been announced by R. C. A. Victor—R. B. Finley, manager of the Finley Music company, announced today.

The sensational new 1938 R. C. A. Victor Model 87K-1—Priced $89.95, electric tuning console equipped with the famous Straight-line dial, Magic Eye, R. C. A. metal tubes, phonograph connection and other features usually found in higher priced sets, is here.

Instantaneous tuning is provided by six button selectors arranged conveniently below the dial, which can be marked with the call letters of any six stations.

Housed in a masterpiece of cabinetry of massive proportions, this new model is creating unprecedented interest wherever it has been seen.

It provides excellent domestic and short-wave reception on three wave bands. Its range is 530-1720 kilocycles and 2300-22,000 kilocycles, providing short-wave reception on six bands as well as police, amateur and aviation calls.

And to top it all off, this new 1938 sensational Model 87K-1 has been equipped with a super concert dynamic speaker to provide excellent fidelity. R. C. A. Victor has also added two new table models equipped with magic eye and includes as another important feature, the straight-line dial and band indicator.

The dial slants back for easier tuning. The Finley Music company, headquarters for R. C. A. Victor, invites you to call into their store and try the new 1938 sensational R. C. A. Victor in their test studio at your leisure, just like you would in your own home and really get the feel of this marvelous R. C. A. Victor achievement for 1938, a new thrill in radio.

NEW WHITE LEAD IS ONE OF BEST

Euston Product, Made Through New Process, Sold by People's Lumber Co.

"If a man builds a better mousetrap the world will beat a path to his door."

It was back in 1862, on a murky winter day that a Mr. Euston discovered he had hit upon a new way of grinding lead for paint. He knew full well that his invention would sooner or later revolutionize the painting industry. But he did not have capital to invest in the new business on a large scale. He patented his process and started to make white lead of a clearer texture . . . white lead that looked whiter and went farther per pound.

It was a long time before Euston's new process had spread much farther than St. Louis. But eventually he interested new capital in his business and moved to Scranton, Pa.

Today the Euston Lead company is recognized as one of the most outstanding manufacturers of paint materials. Euston white lead is no longer an experiment. Painters with years of merit-worthy experience behind them insist on the use of Euston white lead for their best jobs. Let the People's Lumber Co., local dealer, explain more in detail.

ECONOMY OF NEW FORD IS PROVED

Sixty-Horsepower Model Wins First Place in Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run

DEARBORN, Mich., Jan. 24—The economy of the 60 horsepower Ford V-8 was dramatically demonstrated in the Gilmore-Yosemite economy run held Thursday, Jan. 13, from Los Angeles to Yosemite National park, Calif., a distance of 314.5 miles.

The "60" Ford not only won first place in its price class, but also made the best gasoline economy record of 23 cars, comprising all entrants in its price class and those above, on the basis of actual miles per gallon and without reference to weight.

Competing over a route which largely comprised winding mountain roads, the Ford "60" entrant established an economy mark of 28.86 actual miles per gallon, and a record of 50.797 ton-miles per gallon. The next best performance by cars of other make in the Ford price class was 6.857 fewer actual miles per gallon.

Earl B. Gilmore, president of the oil company sponsoring the run, declared the Ford performance "spectacular" in view of the road conditions.

Prizes were awarded on the basis of ton mileage, that is the total weight of the car in tons, multiplied by the number of miles driven and the result divided by the gallons of gasoline used.

Only stock sedans were entered, the run being conducted under the rules and supplementary regulations, and with the sanction of the contest board of The American Automobile Association.

HARRIS COMPANY HIGHLY LAUDED

West State Street Garage Has Wrecker Service Second to None, Skilled Mechanics

An auto wrecker service second to none in the state, is the boast of the Harris garage.

Their equipment is exceptionally complete, no job is too big for their giant wrecker to handle, and the men sent out have had years of experience getting all sorts of wrecks up out of gulleys and caverns and even out of lakes where the cars were in as much as 20 feet of water.

Known Far and Wide
The Harris company's reputation has spread throughout the country, for they actually have handled wrecked cars for owners in nearly every state in the union. Two, for instance, left this week for Florida.

An average of over 20 wrecks are brought to the Harris garage each month. Most of these are repaired by the experienced mechanics at this establishment, for they do enjoy the full confidence of every insurance company in this community, and their equipment is unusually complete.

Their body and paint department is manned by men who know the factory methods, which results in rebuilt work the equal of the original.

No Shoddy Work
The mechanical service in all its many departments has long been recognized as above the average, because the Harris company refuses to do shoddy repair work just to meet some cut-throat price. This policy has earned for them the reputation of leaders in their field.

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified adv. columns.

Paris Asks Chance To Prove That Good Dry Cleaning Is No Mystery

To the general public, dry cleaning is still much of a mystery. This is unfortunate, for if the layman had at least a rough idea of cleaning processes and problems, there would be fewer unreasonable complaints, and a better understanding of the problems involved removing difficult stains and cleaning fabrics.

Realizing this, L. C. Price, manager of the Paris Cleaners, invites anyone interested to visit the plant on the Benton rd. He points out that this plant is completely equipped and unsurpassed, in the way of capacity, in this district.

The Paris will gladly explain any and all operations and processes. Women's organizations could arrange an interesting and instructive hour at their convenience by phoning 710 and asking for Mr. Price.

Dry cleaning as practiced at the Paris Cleaners, is a truly scientific operation. It might almost be said that no two fine dresses are treated alike. No effort is made to operate on a production basis.

Most people know that there is no definite price charged for dry cleaning. What they don't know, or at least give little thought to is that production dry cleaning means working against time, every garment receiving exactly the same treatment with the result that few in the day's work, are truly well cleaned or finished.

Each a Separate Problem
Price considers each garment as a separate problem. It is measured so when the finishing is done it will be certain it is returned shaped as it should be to please its owner.

Western Sheriff Depends On Fords

Emmett L. Shay, sheriff of San Bernardino county, California, assisted by seven deputies and Ford V-8 cars, polices a larger area than any other sheriff in the United States.

The county contains 20,175 square miles, and is larger than the combined area of five states—Rhode Island, Delaware, Connecticut, New Hampshire and New Jersey. The sheriff's deputies patrol the "empire" in Ford V-8s and, each puts about 50,000 miles a year on his car.

WHITE TO SEEK SENATOR'S TOGA

Former Governor Announces Return to Political Front; Bulkley Has No Comment

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24.—George White of Marietta returned today to Ohio's political front with the announcement he would be a candidate in the August primary for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

The former governor and one-time chairman of the Democratic national committee likely will oppose Senator Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland, who is expected to seek re-election, Senator Bulkley said in Washington last night.

"Anybody has the right to run," he declared, "but I have decided to decline his probable candidacy. He answered: 'My decision will be announced in due course. There is no hurry.'"

White said he was entering the campaign "without the backing of a machine, group or faction of the party, and no one can get me out."

He declared he was "sincerely in favor of the objectives of the New Deal."

White, who was governor from 1930 to 1935, ran third to U. S. Senator Vic Donahay and Charles West in the senatorial primary contest. West, now under-secretary of the interior, had the backing of Bulkley, a strong supporter of President Roosevelt.

LEETONIA

Mr. and Mrs. William Hummel returned Sunday from several weeks visit with Mr. Hummel's mother, Mrs. Walter Miller at New Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Whitacre and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holt, Jr. and daughter, Marian, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hutchinson at Alliance.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Atkinson of Washingtonville and Mr. and Mrs. William Atkinson were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Milton McCosnell at Steubenville.

Mrs. R. C. Shive is visiting this week at Niles, Mich.

Miss Martha Reed of Youngstown, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Victor Hedl.

Miss Catherine Lavelle is visiting her brother, Regis Lavelle and family in Pittsburgh.

$50,000 Project In Ohio Is Approved

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Senator Bulkley (D-Ohio) announced today President Roosevelt had approved a $50,000 WPA allotment to provide employment for needy persons in weather stations in 24 Ohio counties.

Headquarters for the project will be in New Philadelphia. The stations will be operated in Stark, Muskingum, Columbiana, Knox, Tuscarawas, Belmont, Holmes, Noble, Summit, Richland, Coshocton, Medina, Washington, Carroll, Morgan, Fairfield, Licking, Ashland, Guernsey, Perry, Wayne, Harrison, Morrow and Monroe counties.

He Saw Red

CHICAGO—A thief who stole an automobile from a dark garage at the home of Charles Madsen in suburban Harvey saw red when he drove the car out into the light.

He quickly abandoned it when, to his surprise, he found it painted a bright red and bore fire department insignia. Madsen is chief of the Harvey department.

Emily Post Spills Cranberries and Laughs It Off

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Emily Post, arbiter of etiquette—of all people—has spilled something on the tablecloth.

And of all places, it had to happen at a dinner of the Gourmet society, which includes some of New York's fanciest feeders.

And of all things, Mrs. Post had to spill not cowpox or polio but Swedish lingonberries (mountain cranberries to us).

And to make matters as bad as possible, the subject of the day's after-dinner speeches was "Table Manners."

As the cranberry blot deepened on Mrs. Post's escutcheon—and the Hotel St. George's tablecloth—George Frederick, president of the society, gallantly suggested that maybe her elbow had been jiggled by a careless waiter.

But the author of "Etiquette" spurned the gesture. "People," she said, "generally think I'm made of tin, sort of mechanical robot, but it's not so."

And with a smile and a remark that "nobody need ever be afraid of me in the future," she dropped her elbows on the table again.

COLUMBIANA

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Detwiler, Sr., entertained at a lovely reception and party Saturday evening at Valley Golf club honoring their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Detwiler, Sr., bride and groom of Dec. 27.

The evening was spent dancing and playing cards. Lunch was served at small tables centered with dainty bouquets of pink sweet peas.

Among those present were the honored couple Mr. and Mrs. George Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Naughton, Dr. and Mrs. McClure, Dorothy Beading, Marjorie Fleming, Virginia Hannan, Harriet Evans, Ray Stambaugh, Glen Gourley William Rees, Jack Royster of Youngstown; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Holt of Leetonia; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Maurer of East Palestine; Mr. and Mrs. George Seiderly and the host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maurer are the parents of a son born Saturday night.

Sorosis club will meet Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. D. Strickler, Elm st.

The Sunday evening union service was held in the Presbyterian church, when Rev. Zolton Irshay superintended of the Campbell Christian neighborhood house gave an interesting travelogue on his recent trip through Central Europe.

The talk was illustrated with motion pictures. The L. L. class of the Presbyterian Sunday school will meet on Thursday evening, instead of Friday, as originally scheduled.

The monthly meeting of the Missionary society of Grace Reformed church will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday in the church lecture room.

Quiet, Please

KENDALVILLE, Ind.—Since Jan. 1, in this town of 6,000 persons—no one has been arrested and no cases have been tried in city court.

There have been no violent deaths.

No building permits have been issued.

And, although it's a campaign year, no one has stepped forth as a candidate for public office.

GET UP AT NIGHT?

A DIURETIC stimulant such as Dr. Pierce's A-muric is often indicated and usually it is sufficient to relieve minor kidney irregularities. Mrs. Milton Harris, 3919 Dove Lane, Toledo, Ohio, says: "During the day I always felt tired, as much of my rest at night was lost from frequent rising. A-muric was all I found necessary to take to relieve the misery." Buy Dr. Pierce's A-muric at any drug store.

Be Extra Careful about STUBBORN COLDS

TOO often, the cold that "hangs on" is a result of neglect... and neglect is always risky... extra careful of a stubborn cold, of course. But the safest course is to be careful of all colds. Don't experiment. Relieve their misery this PROVED way.

Here's What To Do: It's best to stay in bed and get lots of rest. Eat lightly, drink plenty of water, and keep elimination regular. And use Vicks VapoRub without delay.

VapoRub has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

No Long Waiting for Relief to Begin... VapoRub is direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no stomach upsets. Just massage it on throat, chest, and back. Then—make its long-continued double thick layer on the chest and cover with a warm cloth.

Relief starts almost at once. You begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by body warmth, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm, eases irritation and coughing, helps break local congestion. And long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps right on working.

NOTE: If there is much irritation and coughing, or the air-passages feel clogged with heavy mucus or phlegm, even stronger vapor action is helpful. Four boiling water in a bowl, melt a teaspoonful of VapoRub in it, and inhale the steam-vapors for several minutes.

VICKS VAPORUB

Theater Attractions

The Grand theater presents "The Bad Man of Brimstone," an excellent western, tonight and Tuesday. In this western picture, Wallace Beery has his most dramatic role since "Viva Villa." The picture is a drama of pioneer days and the victory of law and order over the banditry that marked America's first western settlements.

Beery as "Trigger Bill" Wallace Beery plays Trigger Bill, an outlaw making his last stand against the coming of population and progress, and with them the law. Virginia Bruce plays the local school teacher, Dennis O'Keefe, new discovery in leading men, is cast as Jeff Burton, prize fighter turned lawyer and federal marshal, who brings the law to Brimstone.

Joseph Calleia is seen as Beery's lieutenant, Lewis Stone plays the town lawyer who becomes a corrupt judge, Guy Kibbee enacts the role of "Eight Ball," Jeff's trainer and companion.

Also in the cast are Bruce Cabot as Beery's rival in outlawry, Cliff Edwards as a crooning killer, Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, Arthur Hohl, Robert Gleckler, Noah Beery, reunited with his brother Wallace for the first time since 1916; Scotty Beckett, John Wray, John Qualen, Raymond Hutton, Charley Grapewin and Robert Barrat.

Jeff Burton, prize fighter, stops in Brimstone on his way from New Jersey to San Diego after the stage carrying him is held up by Trigger Bill, outlaw ruler of Brimstone, on the town's outskirts. He meets Loretta Douglas, school teacher. Trigger Bill, through a picture in the back of Burton's watch, discovers the young man to be his son.

He protects Burton through difficult times and, unknown to Burton, provides the money to send the prize fighter to law school. Burton returns as a United States marshal. In a tremendous battle in which he cleans up Brimstone, Trigger Bill sides with him. All the members of the old outlaw gang are killed. Burton and Loretta marry and Trigger Bill quietly leaves Brimstone forever.

"True Confession" At the State tonight and Tuesday is "True Confession," featuring Carole Lombard, Fred MacMurray and John Barrymore.

Miss Lombard and MacMurray play the parts of a struggling young lawyer and his wife, constantly at swords' ends because of the conflict between Miss Lombard's inborn habit of lying and MacMurray's love for truth.

Implicated by circumstantial evidence, Miss Lombard finds herself accused of a murder, of which she is entirely innocent. MacMurray does not believe her story, and forces her to "confess" that she killed in self-defense. On this plea, he gets Miss Lombard an acquittal. Barrymore steps into the scene, in the role of an eccentric derelict whose brother-in-law actually committed the murder, and who tries to blackmail Miss Lombard by threatening to tell MacMurray that she lied to him in her "confession" unless she buys him off.

Supporting the three stars in "True Confession" is a stellar collection of film favorites, headed by Una Merkel, Edgar Kennedy, Lynne Overman, Fritz Feld, John T. Murray, Porter Hall, Richard Carle and Tommy Dugan.

Sleeplessness Steals Beauty Lack of sleep frequently etches need- less lines into beautiful faces. Need- less, because sleeplessness is often caused by constipation, as are also loss of appetite, mental dullness, nervous- ness, the aggravation of skin blemishes.

Keep regular. Don't let more than a day go by without proper elimination. Use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This famous laxative has been the choice of millions of people during a generation. It does not shock the intestinal system. Also, it stimulates the liver's secretion of bile without the discomfort of drastic or irritating drugs. Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at your druggist, 15¢, 30¢ and 60¢ everywhere.

THE COPE FURNITURE CO.'S Mid-Winter Clearance Sale Prices Hit A New Low

If you need Floor Coverings and are in a position to buy, you are most fortunate. It's "Open Season" again. At the beginning of each year, all manufacturers change their lines. Many patterns are "dropped." Some qualities are "discontinued." Many jobbers and manufacturers "reduce their inventories." This all results in unusually good buys, in fact, bargain buys, for the alert merchant who is willing to take the time to find them. The prices we are now quoting on Floor Coverings are only made possible because we scoured the market, found these bargains and are willing to pass these savings along to you.

"GIVE HER WINGS" by MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER XXIV

When Paul had gone, Julie sank into one of the brocade chairs and closed her eyes.

She saw herself at Westbury. She saw herself at her eyes following a dashing gallant figure on a pony. It was the day of the International Polo matches. The gallant captain thundered past the boxes and raised his hand in a salute to her. She heard the murmur of voices around her. "That's young Mrs. Hitchcock . . . Paul's bride."

She saw a villa at Cannes. "A place on Long Island," Nancy Lombard was her best friend. She was a little hazy about the scenes with Nancy. A bride and her best friend in Fayette talked about recipes, hints, formulas for babies, the hired girl. She didn't suppose that Nancy ever talked about things like that. Probably about butlers and divorces and flying clubs and dress-makers. Well, she could talk about things like that.

Minx coats, smart tailored suits, silver fox capes, possibly a delicate three-quarter length ermine floated before her eyes. Pearls and a jewel case from which emeralds, sapphires and diamonds tumbled as if by magic . . . Hazy visions of banquet halls, receptions like she had seen in the movies, transatlantic liners and castles in Scotland, danced before her.

Then she saw Priscilla, not fat, little, noisy Priscilla but a slim young thing graduating from boarding school, making her debut, being skillfully piloted through the mazes of society by her sister, Mrs. Paul Hitchcock.

That was on Monday.

On Tuesday night, Julie didn't think of the marble halls or the ermine coat. She closed her hot eyes and remembered Paul's glance when he looked at her throat. She thought he was going to kiss her but he hadn't and all she could think of was that she had wanted him to. She wanted him to so much that a pulse beat in her throat these many hours later. He was Paul then. He wasn't the millionaire, the young man-about-town. He was Paul Hitchcock and she was falling in love with him.

It must be love. She wasn't quite sure because she had never been in love. But she hadn't been able to eat the lunch that he ordered so carefully. She was starved when she met him but when he began to talk to her her appetite had fled.

They'd gone to a movie because it was cool in the movie house. And dark. Paul had held her hand and she hadn't known what was on the screen. She was conscious only that she was sitting beside him in the close intimacy of the darkness.

They had come out into the bright light of Broadway at five o'clock and Julie blinked her eyes coming back to a world that was familiar yet unfamiliar.

Paul was house-guesting with the Lombards. He said, regretfully, that he had to catch a train to be there for dinner. He was expecting a guest. Julie felt a lump in her throat. His guest was—she was quick to assume—some lovely creature whose hand he would hold and tell her that she was like smoke and flame.

Reading her thought he said, "A friend of Dad's who has some business to talk over. I wouldn't let him tear me from your side if I could help it."

"I'm going away Thursday."

"I know but we've still tomorrow."

"I haven't," she said, piqued for no good reason. "I've an important luncheon on and . . . and some other plans . . ."

He put her into a taxi. "I'll wake you with a telephone call in the morning."

She had a let-down feeling as the cab sped across town. Not that there was any reason for the rush across town. She was only going to dine with Jerry and his Miss Lockwood. They had a man for her but she didn't want any man other than Paul.

And Paul didn't want her. When she said she was leaving Thursday, it hadn't seemed to disturb him at all. Tomorrow! They had tomorrow. What was tomorrow?

He could have said he wanted her to stay on in New York. He couldn't.

she admitted fairly, have done anything more about it. He couldn't very well ask his hostess to invite her to Long Island.

But . . . Julie thought rapidly as her next move suggested itself boldly. She played with it for a few minutes.

Then she thought of Jean Vance. If Jean invited her to visit as a house-guest, she wouldn't have to make a tactical move.

She rapped on the window back of the driver's head, motioning him to stop at a drug-store where she could telephone.

Mrs. Vance's butler told her that "Mrs. Vance is in the country, madam. She is not expected to return for a fortnight."

Julie sighed because there was no other course open to her other than her bold plan.

She dropped a coin in the telephone and asked for information.

"Will you please tell me the telephone number of Mrs. Stanley Lombard, Pennybrook, Long Island?"

She waited. In a few minutes her connection came through. Nancy answered the telephone herself.

"Hello . . . this is Julie Allerdyc." Nancy said hello cordially and how did Julie like New York in a heat wave. "I don't mind the heat but I do mind being lonesome. Paul tells me that you are coming to town on business Wednesday and I'm hoping that you'll take pity on me and have a cocktail with me. You're the only woman I've met in New York that I like and I'd like to ask you so many things."

Nancy said she'd love to. Could Julie meet her at the Weslin Bar at five?

Well, her luck was holding!

If you're always lucky, you can afford to gamble.

Julie Allerdyc sitting in a corner of the Weslin cocktail lounge in the same sheer suit she had worn every day for the last five days, kept her eye from the clock that ticked the minutes after five too rapidly, and hoped she could afford to gamble.

It was twenty minutes after five and Nancy Lombard had said she'd meet her there at five. Suppose Nancy couldn't come? Had forgotten about it?

Julie had gambled on Nancy's coming. When Paul telephoned her early in the morning and asked her for cocktails without saying that he would like to dine with her, she had gambled against that last chance of ever seeing him by saying that she simply couldn't manage it. Now if Nancy didn't come . . .

But Nancy came.

"I'm terribly sorry! My offspring is having her teeth straightened and the dentist held us up. But it is cool here and that's something, isn't it?"

"I didn't mind waiting," Julie said. "Of course, you've seen all this," she waved her hand to include the flower-filled room, the troubadours, the attractive decorations—"But I've been starved for it all my life."

"Really?" Nancy asked interestedly. "What is there about it that appeals to you?"

Julie laughed apologetically. "I suppose it sounds silly to you but you've never lived in a town of fifteen hundred people. There's never anything to see or do. I feel like Cinderella seeing things like this, shops, people like yourself . . . but let's not talk about me. Tell me about the offspring having her teeth straightened."

"Susan? She's just a little lump but I have hopes she'll lengthen out and emerge from this ten-year-old stage into something more attractive."

As a person she has great possibilities which she now lavishes on spaniels."

"I have a lovable, ten-year-old sister. She divides her interest between stray kittens and flea-ridden dogs and she's lots of fun. I miss her."

"Really? Tell me about her. I have a tremendous interest in youngsters that age."

Julie talked about Priscilla at calculated length. Then she said, "I do go on! Do you mind if I ask you to tell me about Long Island? I've never seen it but I have ideas about it. Is it really as beautiful as the novelists make it? I mean your life?"

Nancy sipped her cocktail. "It's dull! Long Island itself is pretty bad. Lots of scrub oak and a few decent places. As for life . . . lots of people coming and going, golf, tennis, gambling, swimming, flying. The same thing you find anywhere else."

Julie sighed. "But it isn't anywhere else! Oh, we have tennis and I play a little golf but it's always with the same people . . . going to the same places! It's been so exciting to have this little fling. Every moment of it has been treasured. Of course flying was the big thrill but . . . she sighed again. "I thought I'd be content with it, but now I'm dreading going back so soon."

"Then why do you?"

Julie twirled her glass thoughtfully. "Because it's too lonesome in New York alone. That's why I asked you to meet me today. You were sweet!"

"What have you been doing since you've been here?"

Julie, with fine disregard failed to mention the dinner parties, the luncheons and theatre. She said, "I've had a bus ride up Riverside Drive"—she had that morning and been bored to death. "I've been window-shopping."

"That doesn't sound like much fun. Must you go back home at once?" Nancy looked at her watch. The gesture wasn't lost on Julie. She felt excited, wary, anxious as an actress or a strategist on whose next words hinged a climax.

Guilelessly she answered, "Oh no! But I think I ought to before I've lost my feeling of enchantment."

Nancy picked up her bag and gloves. "Why don't you run out to our place for a few days before you leave?"

Julie opened her eyes in pleased surprise. "Do you mean it?"

"Of course. There's usually something going on. Stanley could drive you out Friday. I'll have him ring you."

"I'd love it! Please tell me what sort of clothes to bring."

"Anything goes. We'll probably dance on Saturday, play a little golf and tennis and swim. You know the sort of thing you'll need. And now, my dear, thanks for the cocktail . . . you'll forgive me if I run, won't you? I'm meeting Stanley at Penn station."

When she left her, Nancy said, "We'll be looking forward to having you."

"I AM ONE OF THE MILLIONS WHO PREFER CAMELS"

SAYS RALPH GREENLEAF WORLD'S CHAMPION IN POCKET BILLIARDS

"HEALTHY NERVES ARE A MUST WITH ME!"

FOURTEEN different times the news headlines have flashed: RALPH GREENLEAF WINS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP. In a special interview during his recent championship play in Philadelphia, Ralph said: "I'd say the most important rule in this game is to have healthy nerves. And on that score, I think, Camels have a lot extra to offer. One of the main reasons why I've stuck to Camel cigarettes for twenty years is—they don't ruffle my nerves."

And America as a nation shows the same preference for finer tobaccos that Ralph Greenleaf does! Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America

Fencing experts, too, appreciate Camel's finer tobaccos. As BELA DE TUSCAN, the famous instructor, says: "Fencing is very tiring, and I welcome the quick 'lift' I get with a Camel."

"The way these light boats bounce around knocks the daylight out of my digestion! Camels help my digestion to keep on an even keel," says HELEN HOWARD, outboard motorboat racer.

JAMES L. CLARK, famous scientist and explorer, says: "I always carry plenty of Camels with me into the wilderness. 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!' Many's the time I've done it."

HELEN HOWARD, top-flight spring-board diver, of Miami, Florida, says: "Camels don't irritate my throat—not even when I'm sitting around in a wet suit, a target for irritation."

HE IS COUNTED THE GREATEST POCKET-BILLIARD PLAYER OF ALL TIME. Here Greenleaf executes a difficult massé shot, requiring split-hair accuracy, faultless stroking, and healthy nerves. And the world's two famous masters of the cue—champion Ralph Greenleaf and the 18.1 balkline billiard champion, Willie Hoppe—are both Camel smokers.

YOUNGSTOWN EAST HANDS QUAKERS 2ND LOSS

FINAL MINUTE GOAL DEFEATS QUAKER QUINT

Green Hoops Side Shot To Give East 27-25 Victory

The good fortune which has followed Coach Herb Brown's Salem High School Quakers through close games with Alliance and East Palestine turned a cold, cold shoulder on the Red and Black lads last Saturday night.

Thus, the Quakers have their second defeat of the 1937-38 basketball season to ponder over today. A veteran Youngstown East quint handed the Quakers their second setback, nosing them out 27 to 25 in the last minute of play.

East gained the victory when only 20 seconds remained in the fourth and final quarter. A field goal by Green, his only one of the game, turned the trick for the Steel City cagers.

The score was deadlocked at 25-25 and the game appeared headed into overtime when Green looped the deciding shot. It was a one-handed shot from the left side of the court which sent the ball zooming through the hoop without touching the backboard.

The Quakers were offered a chance to tie the score and extend the contest into an extra frame when Olea received a close shot from under the basket just before the final gun sounded.

Crowded by East players who had tried for the goal which would have put the Red and Black lads back into the game, Olea missed. He recovered the rebound from his missed shot and was about to make another try when the game ended.

At the same time as the final gun sounded, Referee Andy Lindsay of Struthers blew his whistle, calling a foul on Green of Youngstown for overguarding Olea when the latter was attempting to get into position for his second try for a field goal.

The foul allowed Olea one free throw, but the Salem player was unable to take his charity shot because excited fans had rushed onto the floor when the gun sounded, making further play impossible.

Because the free throw, even if made, would not have tied the score, no attempt was made to clear the floor and permit Olea to shoot.

The majority of action of the contest was packed into the final period when the score was tied three times, once at 22-22, another time at 23-23 and a third time at 25-25.

After a slow first quarter, in which Salem scored two points to East's four, the Quakers pulled into the lead in the second period and held the advantage until mid-way in the fourth stanza.

The Red and Black lads were out in front 15 to 11 at halftime and 20 to 14 at the close of the third quarter.

Erratic ball-handling and inaccurate shooting by both teams kept the score low in the first quarter. The Quakers began hitting in the second period and at one time in this quarter held an eight-point lead, 13 to 5. East scored seven points to the Quakers' 13 in the second frame.

In the third period, which was occupied with much maneuvering by the Quakers, but little shooting, Salem scored five points to East's three.

The fourth quarter was more than half over when East pulled up, even with the Quakers at a 23-23 score. The count then went to 23-23 and 25-25 before the outcome of the contest was decided.

Poor foul shooting possibly cost the Quakers a victory. The Red and Black lads were given six free throws in the final quarter, but converted only three of these shots. Salem received 12 free throws in four periods, making five East converted, five out of 10 charity shots.

Olea led Salem scoring with 12 points, made on six field goals. Layman was the big gun for East, scoring nine points on four field goals and one free throw.

The Salem reserves were more fortunate than the varsity and chalked up a 32 to 23 victory over East reserves with Jim Kleon leading the scoring with 10 points.

Only one game is scheduled for the Quakers this week. On Friday night, they will meet Warren's Presidents at the Salem High gym.

BOWLING RESULTS

Bowling teams representing the Salem News gained victories in two inter-city matches over the weekend.

News Keglers defeated the Petron-Nyikes of Akron, 2,676 to 2,559, at the Grate Recreation alleys Saturday night and won over the Scarcelli Gardens of Canton, 2,543 to 2,513, at the K. of C. alleys in Canton Sunday.

The Salem Eagles' road team went down to defeat at the Masonic alleys Saturday night, losing to the Leary Beers of Massillon, 2,673 to 2,587.

Two of three Salem ladies' teams which were involved in inter-city matches over the weekend gained victories.

The Salem Eagles' ladies defeated a Massillon ladies' team, 1,977 to 1,739, at the Masonic alleys, and the Grate Recreation ladies won over Kathryn's Beauty Salon of Alliance, 2,021 to 1,918, at the Grate alleys Saturday night.

The lone Salem ladies' team to suffer defeat was Abe's A. A. Five, which lost to Bireley's Orangeade team of Canton, 2,258 to 2,229, at the K. of C. alleys in Canton Saturday night.

Top scores in the ladies' matches were turned in by Olive Ramsey of the Eagles and Stella Smith of Abe's A. A. Five. Miss Ramsey hit 512 on games of 168, 194 and 150, while Miss Smith banged out a 540 score with games of 243, 311 and 166.

Miss Smith's 243 is the highest single game score that has been rolled by a Salem woman in match play this season.

BRIGHT FUTURE IS VIEWED FOR HORSE RACING

H.B. Swope Pictures Good Year In U.S. for Sport Of Kings

By HERBERT BAYARD SWOPE (New York Racing Commissioner)
NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Never in the history of the turf has a coming year's outlook been more promising than that which we envisage for 1938.

Last year closed with a record showing the turf to have attained greater prosperity than ever before. This result was measurable by several factors, among them being: (1) greater attendance; (2) greater gate receipts; (3) greater distribution of purse monies to the horsemen; (4) greater tax receipts for the state; (5) larger number of horses engaged; and (6) a generally higher quality of the sport itself.

From every viewpoint, it is a conservative judgment to say the rate of progress will be continued this year. Certain basic reasons are underway that will contribute to greater public interest in racing.

Plans are being effectuated to remove the stress too generally existing on two-year old racing and to increase opportunities for the older horses. The recently concluded meeting of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners adopted the resolutions prepared and offered by New York whereby there will be definite increase in riding weights. This will give more years of usefulness to the good boys who, under the rules, almost dropped out of contention because of the encouragement given to lightweight riders.

We shall come into the season with a minimum of 103 pounds in all overnight condition and claiming races and we shall not permit allowances to start at other than six pounds below scale.

Many of the famous races, including New York's classic handicaps for older horses, have been heavily increased in value. This is one of the factors making it worthwhile for trainers to preserve their horses against the temptation of ruining them by over-competition when they are two-year-olds.

Chief among the increased stakes is the Breakers, which has been made a future event and will have a value of close to $75,000 this year. The classic Suburban at Belmont park has been boosted to $20,000 and the other handicaps, correspondingly.

It is in the quantity and quality of the thoroughbred that our greatest promise will be found. We have already established two idols and racing needs idols. They are War Admiral and Seabiscuit, the standouts of 1937 which we hope will match strides this year.

There is promise that Pompoon, champion two-year old of 1936 and strong contender against War Admiral in the spring of last year, will again reach eminence. At the moment it would be difficult to pick the three-year old that will win the Kentucky Derby and the championship. But there is promising material to be found in such as Menow, Tiger and Fighting Fox. If Canot Wait rounds into form, he too will be dangerous. The fillies also offer unusual possibilities.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By SID FEDER, (Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz)
NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Branch Rickey personally promised Larry MacPhail the Cardinals would top any offer for Van Mungo. . . . And if they get him, you can wrap up the pennant for those Gas-House Gangsters right now. . . . Jimmy McLaughlin, bearing down on his golf between thoughts of a ring comeback, is shooting in the high 70's consistently. . . . Has anyone recalled that Grover Cleveland Alexander was just about baseball's biggest bargain ever? . . . The Phils bought him for $750 from Syracuse and all old Pete did was win 373 games in 17 years and wind up in the Hall of Fame.

Sam Sneed, overfueled and losing weight, was flailing on quitting the winter circuits and heading home to West Virginia. . . . But that 66 he shot yesterday may change his mind. . . . Harry Danning is asking the Giants for $12,500—a 100 per cent pay jump. . . . Oklahoma's classy kid basketball team has 13 sophoms—half of them have not started shaving yet.

Daffy Dodgers Department: The financial—and other—inducements of radio are so-o-o-o-o nice that "Commentator" Walter Hoyt may quit baseball. . . . after 20 years of flinging under the big tent.

The cat really popped out the bag the other day when a Dodger official let on that Brooklyn attendance fell off from well over a million per season to less than 500,000 in the last seven years.

Jack Doyle's Long-Shot Specials: The Braves at 20 to 1 in the National League pennant race. . . . And Bobby Riggs to give Don Budge what for on the tennis courts. . . . Glenn Cunningham has lost 30 pounds since graduating from Kansas.

The Sympathize with Bill McKechnie, he'll have only five left handers getting in his hair at the Red's training camp. . . . Little old New York wants the 1939 National Open here for its World's Fair.

DEATHS

MRS. MARY B. WITT

Mrs. Mary B. Witt, 82, widow of Atty. F. A. Witt, died at 7:45 a. m. Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. L. McIntire, 1923 East Midlothian blvd., Youngstown, where she had lived for the last four years.

Mrs. Witt formerly lived in Columbiana and East Liverpool. Daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Joshua Calvin, she was born in Calcutta May 30, 1855. She was married in Calcutta in 1875. Her husband died in 1909. She was a member of the United Presbyterian church.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. McIntire, one son, Roland C. Witt of North Lima; four grandchildren; two half-brothers, Y. C. Calvin of New Waterford and Sheridan Calvin of Calcutta; one half-sister, Mrs. Maria George of Canonsburg, Pa.

One brother preceded her in death.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Fry funeral home in Columbiana in charge of Rev. S. S. Burnett. Burial will be in Columbiana cemetery.

The family will meet friends at the funeral home from 7 to 9:30 this evening.

FRED P. WELSH

Fred P. Welsh, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Welsh of R. D. 1, New Waterford, died at 1:20 a. m. Sunday in Salem City hospital, where he had been taken late Saturday for medical treatment.

He had recovered from an attack of grippe last week and had returned to his classes at Fairfield Centralized school, where he was a senior. On Monday he became ill of rheumatic fever.

He was born in East Fairfield May 10, 1920. He was a member of the Fairfield M. E. church, and was active in the work of the Sunday school and Epworth league. Surviving are his parents, one brother, John A., and a sister, Phyllis V., at home.

Funeral service will be held at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday at the home east of Fairfield. Rev. H. W. Middleton will have charge. Burial will be in the Fairfield cemetery.

Suicide Verdict

ATHENS, Jan. 24 — Sheriff Charles Bayless, acting coroner, returned a suicide verdict yesterday in the death of George Rutkowski, 52, composing room foreman of the McBee company, who was found dead beside the exhaust of his automobile.

Here and There About Town

Will Honor Wolfe

Arrangements are being made for a dinner in honor of C. H. Wolfe, who recently retired from active service as Pennsylvania railroad agent at Salem after 49 years' service with that company.

The dinner will be held at 7 p. m. Friday, Feb. 11, at the Lape dining room. The committee on arrangements includes F. R. Roach, who succeeded Wolfe as Pennsylvania agent here; W. J. Terry, shipping clerk at the Deming plant, and L. H. Baldinger, traffic manager at the Mullins plant.

Hits Police Car

The police department's badly-worn auto cruiser suffered another blow at 11:50 a. m. Saturday when Melvin Art backed his automobile into the side of the police car on Sugartree alley, near N. Lundy ave. The report was filed by Patrolman Clifford Todd, who was driving at the time.

City council is expected to appropriate $500, with which to buy a new cruiser, when the councilmen meet next week.

Dr. Dolbeer To Speak

English Lutheran church members and others interested are invited to attend a meeting at the Leetonia English Lutheran church tonight when Dr. M. L. Dolbeer, former missionary in India, will speak.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 in St. Paul's church. Those from Salem who plan to attend are asked to meet at Holy Trinity church at 7:15 for transportation.

Hospital Notes

The following persons have entered Salem City hospital: For surgical treatment, Thomas Wetzel of Lisbon, Mrs. Kenneth Plau of North Lima, Mrs. Owen J. Cook of Columbiana and Mrs. Honor Dales of 510 Walnut st., for medical treatment, Roy Sharkey, Damascus rd., and William G. Evans of Steubenville.

Recent Births

proprietor of a restaurant and beer parlor.

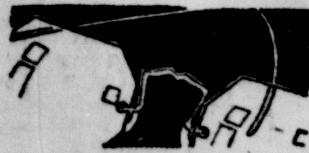

Among those first on the scene was Tony Hamby who did what he could to assuage the grief of the family of little children.

State Highway Patrolmen R. M. Perry and C. W. Cale of Salem happened along shortly afterwards.

From the husband and friends, deputies from the sheriff's office in Canton later pieced together a story that seemed to establish the motive—jealousy and unrequited ardor.

Lawrence, estranged from his own wife and family, lived alone in a house on the outskirts of Malvern near the brick plant at which he was employed.

YOU SAY THAT YOU CAN SEE?

But at what expense to the whole nervous system are you doing the seeing? Are you sure that the converging muscles of your eyes and the focusing muscles of your eyes are synchronizing?

If all the functions of your eyes are not working in perfect harmony, you are being robbed of nervous energy. Silently, stealthily and unknowingly the leakage goes on, day after day.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENTS

Editor, The News:
There are many improvements the City of Salem should have. The softener plant, an outside police and fire system, a public toilet system, and a municipally-owned electric system.

We could establish our own electric system to furnish power for all of our public institutions, much cheaper than they can buy it, which would cut down expenses considerably. I have been in favor of all these improvements for many years but, of course, the years of the depression have turned us all to the bad financially.

I am in favor of a softener plant, even at a price higher than is now anticipated, and as we expect to go in the "red" for it, I suggest we go some farther and install at this time a municipally-owned electric system. Electricity at cost, to run our public plants, is always the proper thing. We could even be able to have better illumination for our streets.

At this time I want to most emphatically object to the city council milking the water works department. Whenever this department gets a few thousand dollars ahead, the council gets the bright idea of asking a judge for the right to borrow it.

I am for a softener system, but, under the circumstances stated above, I most (again) emphatically object, here and hereafter, to raising water rates for buying or for maintenance of same.

Rates are high enough, and there are many users of water who owe huge bills who have the money but will not pay. Also, there are plenty of poor people who have not the money to pay, owing to the depression of the last few years. We know property owners are held for these poor accounts, but to collect is another headache.

I do not like the idea of those who do pay their water bills, to let these others follow the line of least resistance. I am willing to pay my water bill, but I do object to carrying these "able to pay" deadheads. If the water department could collect that which is coming to it, it could pay off its indebtedness when due and be able to cut water rates in half. This is the principle of municipally-owned systems—to give its citizens the benefits of rates equal to cost or as near to that figure as possible.
